

Sean Kammer

Biography

Sean Kammer is an associate professor of law at the University of South Dakota in Vermillion. He received his Bachelors degree in History from the University of Wyoming, his law degree from Duke University and will soon receive his Ph.D. in history from the University of Nebraska. His doctoral dissertation explores the history of railroads and their extensive land grants, specifically regarding the impact they had on the development of natural resource policies in the United States. At the University of South Dakota, he teaches and researches in the areas of natural resources law, environmental law, and legal history.

Sean Kammer

Assistant Professor of Law
University of South Dakota
414 E. Clark Street
Vermillion SD
57069

C: (607) 202-9035

O: (607) 677-6345

Sean.Kammer@usd.edu